

MEMORIAL DAY WILL BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED BY PATRIOTIC ORDERS

Memorial Day will be fittingly observed by the people of Redwood City on Monday next. While the ranks of the old veterans are thinning, they are being filled by the officers of the recent war who will give the spirit of "sixty-one." We honor the memory of our soldiers, but a deeper lesson should be held in mind—that it is a sacred obligation to the living to preserve for which they made the supreme sacrifice. We may well, in these days of strife and unrest, re-educate ourselves to the work that is worth doing, remembering that it is our duty to rest under the Stars and stripes either in life or death.

On next Monday the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief Corps, American Legion, the Woman's Auxiliary to the latter organization, the firemen, Boy Scouts and children will join in paying fitting homage to the hero dead who died that they might live at the exercises to be held in the Sequoia Theatre at 10 o'clock.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1921

Flanders Fields springtime has come again. With rain and leaf and buds so tenderly red, seeking in nature's bounteous, kindly way, The hallowed ground where rest our soldier dead.

This Memorial Day the soil of wounded France receives the homage of a countless host. Cradled in her bosom now she holds The gallant youth whom Allied nations lost.

more they'll hear at eve the bugles blow, Or see the welcome gleam of homey fires; Their marching feet are free from aching strain; They shall not heed the urge of old desires.

that those pilgrims from a thousand ports, Who journey forth to view this sacred ground, May fair conceive and truly understand The sacrifice they made ere peace was found.

then forever lie there in the spot, Where, facing the foe, their life's sun set, and we, in keeping faith with those who fought, Cherish their memory! Let us not forget!

PURCHASING AGENT SHOULD RECEIVE BETTER SALARY

The following editorial from the San Mateo Times of last Saturday is timely and absolutely correct. The purchasing agent, Mr. Werder, has saved the county hundreds of dollars by his wise purchase of county supplies. His department is growing rapidly. Not only should he have a competent assistant but his salary should be in keeping with the importance of the office. He receives only a paltry sum as a salary when he should be receiving as much as other county officials.

"The office of the county purchasing agent has saved the county a very great amount of money since its installation. The purchase of supplies in bulk for all departments of the county government is a vast improvement over the old method of buying separately for each department. This fact has been recognized as a great measure of economy in almost all counties of the state and the office of purchasing agent is recognized as one of the wisest provisions of the county government. Various school boards of the county realize the value of bulk buying and have requested County Purchasing Agent Werder to purchase their supplies for them in order to save the taxpayers of their districts the very considerable difference between the price at which Werder buys an item which the schools pay for their small purchases.

"This is a very wise move on the part of the school trustees and should be followed by other boards in the county for the benefit of their taxpayers. The purchasing agent is comparatively a new innovation in most of the counties and the importance of the office as a money saver is not fully realized yet but it is becoming more apparent every day and more and more responsibility is being placed on the agents as their field of buying is expanded. Before many years, despite the opposition of large wholesale and publishers, all the buying of the counties will come under the supervision of the purchasing agents and the saving effected will be surprising.

"The purchasing agent of San Mateo county is taking on the extra work of buying for the school districts without compensation despite the fact that he is the most poorly paid of the county officials at the present time and carries on the great volume of work in his office without any clerical or stenographic assistance."

JAMES BARADAT DIES OF INJURIES

James Baradat, who was injured in an automobile accident on the Woodside road near Five Points last Thursday afternoon, passed away at the Quinivere hospital early Sunday morning from his injuries.

James Baradat had been a resident of Belmont for only a year and during that time had made many friends by his genial manner, pleasant ways and his honest whole heartedness. He was held in high esteem by all his neighbors and those who knew him. Before coming to Belmont he was engaged in business in San Francisco for twelve years, where he made a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. His death was a severe shock to his many friends in the county.

The funeral took place from the family residence at Belmont on Wednesday last. A large number of sorrowing relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

Mr. Baradat was a native of New Orleans, aged 43 years. He is survived by a widow and two small children.

The inquest was held on Tuesday at the parlors of the Redwood City Undertaking Company by Coroner W. A. Brooke. The evidence showed that Mr. Baradat, Maurice Sheehan and P. Galli were at Woodside visiting friends. On the way back the machine was driven at a rate of 50 miles an hour. A light rain had made the pavement rather slippery and the car skidded and plunged off to the side of the road and into the ditch, turning completely over. Baradat, who was sitting in the rear seat, was buried beneath the wreckage.

He suffered a broken collar bone, several broken ribs and one of his lungs was punctured. He died early Sunday morning at the Quinivere hospital on Washington street, where he had been taken following the accident. Galli, the owner and driver of the car, and Sheehan, who was sitting in the front seat with him, escaped with only a few bruises and scratches.

They have to report to the probation officer the first of every month for that period. MEMORIAL DAY

I have a lover in the fields of France
Where birds still sing and scarlet poppies wave.
There let him lie—I ask not his return.
That my poor grief may tend a lonely grave.

There let him lie, among his comrades all.
In the world's common sepulcher
and shrine;
The trysting-place of every nation's heart;
And let the common sorrow hallow
mine.

But let me plant beside his resting place,
Where fleur-de-lis and scarlet poppies nod,
A bit of beauty from his native land.
The yellow glory of our golden-rod

There Belgium's bloom and Italy's fragrance blend;
There shamrock buds and purple
heather grows;
There the fair lilies of the fields of France
Grow side by side with England's beauteous rose.

There, with the whispering maples
and the pines,
With cypress black and fragrant laurels bloom,
The evening winds with gentle rapture blend
The breath of wattle and the southern broom.

O ask me not to take my love away—
We should be lonely for the fields of France.

NATION'S NEW IDEAL OF PATRIOTISM

The late war has brought us a new ideal of Memorial Day. Services in memory of the dead have been held at some fixed season of the year by all peoples of all times and all religious beliefs. The growth of civilization, in fact, could almost be traced through the evolution of these customs alone from the time when the ancients brought sacrifices and libations of food and wine to leave on the graves, to the present observances of many countries.

It was after the close of the Civil war that Memorial Day, or Decoration day as we love to call it, first became a great American holiday. A group of women of a Mississippi city went out on this day, when all the most beautiful flowers of the year were in bloom, to decorate the graves of their loved ones who had fallen in behalf of the "Lost Cause." Many of the southern dead lay side by side with the enemy, but there were no enemy graves when they had finished, for all alike had been flower-strewn. When the story of this was spread abroad, many northern cities set apart a day a month later, when the flowers in the colder climates were beginning to bloom profusely, and went out and decorated all the graves of the soldier dead in their cemeteries.

One by one the state legislatures passed laws making Memorial day (April 30 in some of the southern states) a legal holiday. To us it has been more familiar as a day on which the cemeteries are visited and the graves, not only of the Civil war veterans, but of all the dead, decorated, than as an occasion for great patriotic gatherings.

Reminiscent of that first Memorial day and the way in which it drew North and South together with the common bond of their dead between them is an incident of how this holiday was observed in France last year. A great cemetery, where simple freshly painted crosses row on row marked the serried ranks of American sleepers, had been built up near a French village. The simple folk of this village, with their own beautiful but and Jour des Morts, or annual day of praying for the souls of their dead, had heard that the next day was the day on which American honored the dead, so they sent a request to the American hospital not far away, asking doctors, nurses, canteen workers, and patients—all who could—to join them early on the following morning at the entrance to the cemetery just at the edge of the town.

The cannons in which the Americans would have gone were all pressed into emergency service, and when they finally arrived at the cemetery, it was late afternoon. The French came to meet them, disappointed, thinking they had failed to make themselves understood. All the children of the village, they said, had arisen at daybreak and gone out into the fields and gathered dew-wet flowers until the graves of Les Americains had been entirely covered from sight. When they had waited as long as they could, many of them went away sobbing that the flowers, which were already beginning to droop, could not have been held in all their freshness by those who had known and loved the sleepers.

Those same graves will be flower-strewn by loving hands this year, and wet again with the tears of the simple folk who knew and loved our boys. But the Americans whose loved ones lie buried there will not spend the day in idle tears. For the ideals with which we went into the World war, and with which we saw it through, have become a new ideal of national life, of which we should be never so conscious as on Memorial day. It has become to us not the day on which we mourn those who are with us no more, but rather the day on which we take thought of the great uplifting spirit of patriotism which led them into the conflict, until something of it becomes our spirit and we catch the vision to carry on.

It will come to us on Memorial day that we good Americans are facing conflicts almost as grave as those they faced in the first lines over there and we must grapple ourselves up with courage. We have a thousand enemies which we must face, insidious ones. To sit down and weep now would be to betray the bravery they have shown. We must fight the little tongues of revolutionary flame that are consistently darting up here and there; we must combat the restlessness, the discontent; we must fight the profiteers and the trade abuses; and we have equally to fight old, reactionary tendencies toward slipping back into old, stagnated channels. And so this year, even more than last, Memorial day will be a day on which we will consciously pledge ourselves anew to the ideals which our boys, with all America, went to war.

All over America there are to be gatherings together of men, women and children, as if all the communities of the country had heard the voices of the dead through the voice of Roosevelt, saying:

"If any friends or loved ones of ours wish to convey to us, after death, the way to do it is by some expression of good will to those who are still living."

THE WAY TO FRIENDSHIP

It is arranged that Gen. Pershing shall be in Paris to participate in the celebration of Bastille Day, July 14th. Later it is understood he will return to the United States on the same ship with Marshal Foch and the body of an unidentified American soldier. In accordance with an act of Congress passed at the last session, the body will be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington with elaborate ceremonies, prominent in which will be the leader of the American armies and the commander in chief of all the allied forces. It is international exchanges of that sort that cement the friendly ties between nations and reduce the probability of future wars. France and the United States are not at peace merely because certain arbitrary rules and regulations are written into league of nations covenant, but because there are mutual ties of sympathy and understanding between the two countries.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Protest against a "consumption tax" does not fool anyone into the notion that some taxes are not consumption taxes. The excess profits tax, the corporation tax, the income tax, the land tax, the automobile tax, are all consumption taxes passed on from one to another. It is undoubtedly true that some of the taxes are not equally distributed but in general they finally fall as a practical equal burden upon all. The inheritance tax is probably the least assily passed on to some one else, but all taxes paid by men in active business are added to the cost of production and reflected in prices. There is little in names.

GOVERNMENT COMPETITION

Last year the profits of the Federal Reserve Bank at New York were such that a six per cent dividend was paid to all stockholders, and enough was left over to turn $39,000,000 into the United States Treasury. It is to the credit of the Republican administration that the interest rate on loans has been promptly cut. The Federal Reserve system was not designed as a money-making institution for the Government, but solely as an aid to sound business.

It is refreshing to the American people to see an out-spoken man like George Harvey representing this country at the Court of St. James. His address at the Pilgrim's Club in London recently was straight from the shoulder and that is what the genuine American likes.

SENATOR SHORTIDGE ABLY DEFENDS MRS. FUNSTON'S RIGHTS

By an executive order of the war department Mrs. Funston, widow of the famous general, was about to be deprived of her home at the Presidio when friends came to her aid and she was permitted to retain her home. Shortly after the death of General Funston Mrs. Funston and her children came to reside at the Presidio. She only received a small pension of $100 a month from the government in order to live and raise her family it was necessary that she should have the home at the military post. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge was appealed to at Washington. He was fully acquainted with the facts of the pathetic case and at once he sought the war department and by an eloquent presentation of the existing facts was instrumental in having the order nullified as far as it pertained to Mrs. Funston.

She now will enjoy her home in peace and comfort—thanks to California's able and wide-awake representative. General Funston devoted the best portion of his life to his country, fighting in the far-off Philippines and suffering all kinds of hardships at the Mexican border.

General Funston, who captured Aguinaldo, the noted Filipino, died a poor man. His achievements will ever live in the memory of the American people. The history of his brilliant military career will be read by future generations with interest and pleasure. It will be an inspiration to the patriotic zeal of the boy and young man of the future. It is but fitting that this grateful government should provide a home for the widow and children of this great man.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

The open beautiful home of the late Senator C. N. Felton is for sale and may be sold in a short time. The University Realty Company's sign was up on the property this week. All the holdings of the Felton Estate Company here are to be disposed of very soon. The 20 acres on the highway including the strip in the Dominga tract were sold last week to Rogers Reynolds for $19,000. The home was the pride and joy of the Senator in his life time. It was there he entertained his influential friends. Felton in days ago was a warm friend of Justice McKenna of the U. S. supreme court. The judge, who was then a congressman from Bouleia, spent many happy days at the old home as the guest of his friend. Felton, then prominent in politics, added Mr. McKenna in securing the supreme court appointment from President McKinley. President Harrison visited Felton at the home during his administration. Other notables were entertained there. The old building is rapidly going to decay, the once attractive grounds are no longer cared for, the beautiful lawns are overgrown with weeds and the choice shrubbery is dying. A new owner may bring back the place to its pristine beauty but it is doubtful. Let it be hoped that the old home, with its many pleasant memories, may be preserved.

Miss Louise Hahn, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. A. G. C. Hahn, of Menlo Park, was hostess on Saturday at an all-day picnic at her home.

The morning was devoted to games. After luncheon, the young picnicers and a number of adult visitors adjourned to the meadows, where an exhibition of horses and horsemanship took place. Ribbons were won by Miss Waldo Linforth's black, Miss Henrietta Frazer's pretty "Charlotte," by Miss Evelyn Taylor's pony, "Lady Gay," and by the ponies of the following children: Katherine Doyle, Eleanor Wier, Johnny Shortridge, Royal Coryell Gordon Coryell, Boyd Weir, Betty Downing, Charlie Merrill, DeLancey Lewis, Jr., Elizabeth Weil, Evelyn Taylor, Nancy Merrill, James Brainerd, Clara Brainerd, Perry Pond and Ruth Bowen.

The program included races, jumping, pony events and feature races of different kinds. One of the prettiest of these was the balloon race on horseback and one of the most amusing was the nightgown race, in which the young riders were required to don their nightgowns while riding, the prize going to the one who first reached the goal properly. The children all proved themselves clever horsemen and horsewomen. The hostess on her pretty pony, "Nippy," displayed much skill, but did not complete in the various events.

Mrs. Warren Clarke, niece of E. W. Hopkins, has taken the old Hopkins home on Oak Grove avenue for the summer and has moved down from the city with a retinue of servants.

Mrs. M. MacDonald, a sister of Mrs. Arthur O'Neill, arrived during the week-end. She contemplates making Menlo Park her permanent home.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Rock, whose only son is studying for the priesthood at St. Patrick's seminary, have arrived from the city to spend the summer with Miss Agnes and Miss Beattie Mason, nieces of Mr. Rock.

Mrs. George Agnus is visiting the J. B. Leonard in San Francisco for two weeks.

Miss Adele Giese was a visitor at the O'Dea home during the week.

Mrs. Jack Clay (Nellie McCarthy), is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, for a few days.

Miss Regina Harrington had Mrs. Helen Braun of San Francisco as a week-end guest.

Frank Johnson, the popular roadmaster for the Third township, has a crew of roadbuilders engaged in reconstructing the Alameda de Las Pulgas from the terminal at Holy Cross cemetery to the Walsh road.

When completed the Alameda will be one of the best and most popular drives of the peninsula. Its scenic beauty cannot be equalled.

Margaret Walsh, the pretty young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Walsh, was entertained at a house party at the home of the Misses Harrington on Pine street, Wednesday evening. Miss Walsh is a professional nurse who has for some months past been residing at Santa Rosa. A very important announcement was made at the party which is not to be made public for some time in deference to the wishes of the young lady.

The Menlo Park baseball team suffered defeat at the hands of the Mountain View nine at the community center at Palo Alto last Sunday by a score of 7 to 11. The former played professional ball up until the fifth inning when the score was 4 to nothing in their favor. They lost their morale by a few bay plays, permitting the other side to make four runs. In the last inning they made a spurt but could not retrieve their losses. This game gives the Mountain View team the lead in the series in the league. The Menlo Park team plays the Mayfield nine on the latter's diamond tomorrow afternoon.

Those who recently sold their property to the government for the base hospital site were called to the city during the week to execute new deeds. They expect their money in a few days. Senator Shortridge has been making a good fight for a big appropriation for permanent buildings and it is believed his efforts at Washington have caused the government to secure possession of the land at once. Congress has appropriated some $18,000,000 for the U. S. Health Service for hospitals, etc., and Mr. Shortridge has been making an effort to secure a good portion of this for the Menlo Park institution.

Bishop Parson will administer the rite of confirmation to a class in Trinity Episcopal church tomorrow. A large congregation is to be present to greet the Bishop.

A number of military officers who are about to be placed on the retired list are to locate their homes here. Many of them served at Camp Fremont and were delighted with the climate. Then, too, it is convenient to secure their foodstuffs, etc., from the military stores at the Presidio. Large trucks arrive here daily "on that place on their way to the Base hospital, so the convenience to the officers is a lure to their location. All military men receive merchandise at these stores at first cost from the government.

Charles M. Holbrook has opened his attractive home here for the summer, having moved down from the city on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Eyre have opened their Atherton home for the summer months. Mrs. Eyre will entertain considerably during the season.

James G. Mason and his niece, Miss Ida Owen of Saratoga, left on the steamer Matsushin, sailed from San Francisco Wednesday at noon for Honolulu. They will be gone for six weeks. Many friends and neighbors met them at the train leaving here to wish God speed on their journey and a safe return.

The Menlo Park grammar school will close on June 17 for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Pearson of Lodi and Lieutenant J. R. Pearson of Modesto are week-end guests of Professor and Mrs. Bowers.

Last Saturday evening a masquerade was given Miss Bertha Agard in Trinity hall in honor of her birthday. Dancing and games were indulged in after which refreshments were served on beautifully decorated tables. About 25 guests were present.

The Presbyterian church has announced a social for next week.

ASKS THAT LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION BE REVOKED
L. M. Duncan yesterday filed a petition in the superior court asking that the letters of administration upon the estate of Ilarene Duncan Heiner issued to Lester E. Muller, of December 2, 1918 be revoked. Duncan in his petition alleges that Muller has failed to render an account of his affairs of the estate to the court and has done nothing towards settling the estate. Muller has been cited to appear in court on June 2 to show cause why he should not be removed as said administrator. Duncan claims the right as a brother of the deceased to administer upon the estate.

Poor old Broom was a good old soul, But we fear the discard's now his goal.

The broom bears the same relation to a vacuum cleaner that a tallow candle does to an incandescent or a horse car does to an electric car. The broom belongs in the days that have gone—the old days when from sun to sun a woman's work was never done. The vacuum cleaner surely has won the V. C.
